

IAN Games is Olivier Larrieu's one-man studio born from the wish to reconcile two passions, writing and playing video games, with a French touch! Using his 30 years experience in both, he is devoted to bringing a new momentum to adventure games. His first attempt, Bleeding Moons, and the awards it has won so far have convinced him that he can add his share to the video game world. For more information, visit www.iangames.com.